Opportunity its exercise did not present in any le timate channel and he embraced the hance for haranguing a multitude upon grievances some of which existed, many of which were imaginary. On the day of the awful tragedy in the Haymarket he did a day's work like an honest man. He had no thought of the impending calamity. He put on a clean shirt after he had taken care of his team and presented himself as a speaker in the Haymarket and though his language was such as various ministers have recently employed it was not such as in this land of free speech would authorize the extermination of his life upon the gallows.

After long delay the governor of Illinois incumbent has done what a predecessor did tentatively. Appealed to in behalf of Fielden and Schwab, Oglesby, then governor, felt the necessity of braving public opinion, which was wrong as to these two men, and commuting the capital sentence in their case to life service in the penitentiary. Gov. Altgeld sees proper to give them liberty. He may err in detail, but it is on the side of mercy and, a vast number of our people believe, on the side of justice. The Governor has also given a chance for the remainder of his years to Oscar Neebe, and right in this instance also.

These men were wrong, but not capitally wrong, in the method of their agitation for redress of what they considered grievances. But they did nothing so far as calm-minded men can discern to dewe death or imprisonment during the of their natural lives. Gov. Altof their natural lives. Gov. Alt-geog wiving them freedom for the rest daughter to go where the devil is superinof their days, has exercised an act which appeals to every heart imbued with the Gov. Oglesby saved from the gallows the men to whom Gov. Altgeld has finally given freedom. There was great uncasiness at the time of the conviction among judicious persons at the thought of condemning to the rope men like Schwab and Fielden, whose direct connection with the tragedy of the Haymaring to the explosion of a bomb was not

Judge Gary and the state's attorney seemed to share that opinion. When Gov. Oglesby was patitioned for commutation of sentence in the case of these two men Judge Gary wrote as to Fielden: There is in the nature and private character of the man a love of justice, an impatience at undeserved sufferings. In his own private life he was the honest. industrious, and peaceful laboring man. In what he said in court before sentence he was respectful and decorous. His language and conduct since have been irreproachable. As there is no evidence that he knew of any preparation to do the specific act of throwing the bomb that killed Degan he does not understand even now that general advice to large masses to do violence makes him responsible for the violence done by reason of that advice." This statement was indorsed by the state's attorney, who added a good word as to Schwab.

Fielden harangued recklessly. He was a natural spouter. Schwab spoke recklessly. But neither spoke nor wrote more recklessly than ministers of the gospel have spoken and written for the last few months concerning Sunday opening of the fair.

For their incendiary utterances these nen have been sufficiently punished Neebe ought never have been convicted, It is well that all three are at large .-Chicago Times.

FOR CHRISTIANS.

Some of you spent part of each night ast week in and around saloons; can't you take your children Sunday morning to Sunday-school and spend an hour?

When the devil can get a Christian to sit still and keep his mouth shut he has got-him just where he wants him, The Devil then is furnishing the capital and the man is the silent partner.

Keep your eye on the glib-tongued Christian, who is always talking religion, and when he gets out of church gives the devil his right hand and goes off with him or a week at a clip.

Remember a child's mind is like a garlen; we can plant anything we want to in it, something useful, or spanish needles, or weeds. Which are you plantng? Look around and see.

What do you think of a Christian who avs he is on the Lord's side and lets his children run loose on Sunday like a wild how? He ought to be carried to hell and kept there about fifteen minutes, and hen he would come back all right

If the religion in Cloverport is keeping pace with the town, as far as public improvement and get-up-and-push is concerned, her good people are about as near Heaven as some people are to hell.

We admire the honesty of the cowboy ont West who said, "Boys, let's all tell our real names." The man that don't get up and tell his real name is no Christian. Get out with your galvanized re-

Some preachers are like a cow's tail in fly time that has been cut off about half way; it is as willing a soul as you ever saw; it will wag all day, but it is too short. It won't reach the case. It's your shout into the sky; men don't live there. Brethren be honest. If there is anything a man will go to the devil for it is 'aping" after somebody. Fight the devil in your own way, and tell him every time he comes around that he is a liar and to

of being like your other dog will be a lit- ale by Short & Haynes, druggists. tle shorter tail. That's all. He will have the dog's hair and ways.

You must give your heart with your money when you are giving to the Lord: if you don't you will get your money but you will have to go to hell to get it. Some Christians may not have a snout like a hog, but they have the bristles up their back, and can nose into mighty nasty things sometimes, just the same.

When is an old hen doing her devilment? It's when she has her head up, Then she is tearing up things with her feet. Some Christians will hold a high head and talk loud about the love of God with their tongue, and when they get out of church go to scratching for the devil with their hands and feet.

Don't neglect your children. Train them in the right way. We would rather a boy of ours would go to Heaven as ignorant as a billy goat than to hell full of Latin and Greek, whisky, dudeism and

Mothers, don't neglect your girls, for if on do the devil will not. He is on the corners right now talking about them. May the Lord give you the courage to throw hot water in their faces every time

If a man don't want to be called a liar he must quit lying. If a man wants to be called a Christian he must show the world his credentials. The rose never goes to the snake, but the infernal, poisonous serpent can come and coil up under the rose. Christians cannot afford to take part in anything the devil has a hand in, neither can they keep the devil from coming around, they can turn their backs on him.

Wheat harvest is about over and farmers are feeling much better, as they will soon have their corn in good shape and be on their meadows, which will make them feel like their summer's work is nearly complete, with the exception of tobacco growers, who will have to stay with it all winter. We hope they will realize more for their work in the tobacco fields this year than they usually do, for we don't think they have been getting value received for their work, and we wish them better success in the future.
